Flag Day

Flag Day is celebrated each June 14 to honor the 1777 date when the Second Continental Congress adopted America's familiar stars and stripes as the national flag.

"Resolved," Congress declared, "that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

Many Americans know that design today as the "Betsy Ross flag."

President Wilson issued a Flag Day proclamation in 1916, as the nation debated entry into World War I.

Yet the holiday truly gained recognition in 1949, in the patriotic glow of a victorious United States after World War II, when Congress passed — and President Truman signed — a law establishing June 14 as National Flag Day.
